'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

After tramping around for hours and hours . . .

* * * *

And after spending money for gasoline . . .

* * * *

* * * *

Oh, boy, ain't it a grand and glorious feeling when you find the place you want?

* * * *

Labor day holidays will soon be here . . . and the highways and byways will be crowded with thousands and thousands of automobiles.

* * * *

And the list of the dead and injured will pile up.

* * * *

Fenders will be dented . . . harsh words will be exchanged.

* * * *

* * * *

And Frank Fast Driver will as usual, try to reach Slocum in half an hour . . . not because he has anything special to do there . . . but because he wants to get there in a hurry.

* * * *

* * * *

Oh well, life's like that.

* * * *

The culprits who burned the high school bonfire on Wednesday night may have had a sense of humor.

* * * *

But nevertheless, the trick was a low one.

* * * *

* * * *

It was they who worked all week collecting the wood for the big fire.

* * * *

But the rally went off as scheduled and everybody seems to be happy.

ELECTION TO BE HELD ON SEPT. 11

With the nomination of officers at the American Legion meeting last night in the Memorial hall, it was evidenced that Harry Burt would be unopposed for the post of commander next term.

The only other unopposed candidate for office in the Richmond Post was Tony Papadakis, who was nominated as treasurer.

Other offices will be hotly contested, according to Commander Lowell R. Sears, who declared last night that each office has several candidates.

Election will be held at the next meeting of the post on Sept. 11.

Reports on the recent state convention in Sacramento were received at the meeting, and Hall Sanders entertained the gathering with stories.

The drill team is making considerable progress, Sears said, and will now practice every Monday night on the Memorial hall grounds between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

Rifles to equip three squads have been ordered, and it is planned to have the drill team form a firing squad and initiatory team.

Plans have already been started for the meeting of the county council in Richmond Oct. 16, at which time Richmond post will be host to the gathering.

The meeting will be held jointly with the American Legion Auxiliary groups, according to the announcement.

8 YEAR OLD GIRL LURED AWAY FROM CHUMS, SLAIN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 28.—The body of eight-year old Marberine Appel who disappeared from her home here Wednesday and was believed by authorities to have been kidnaped was found in a vacant lot back of the Appel home late tonight.

The girl disappeared yesterday while she was at play with three other children in the neighborhood of her home.

Authorities believed that she had been kidnaped by some men mentally deficit who had been inspired by the recent kidnaping of ten-year-old Betty Jane Foster.

Girl Attacked

Physicians said the girl had been dead about two hours when the body was found. Pieces of bailing wire had been drawn tightly around the girl's neck and her head displayed marks tending to show she had been struck by a blunt instrument.

There was little doubt, officials said, that the girl had been brutally assaulted and then murdered.

The lot in which the body was found, had been searched by police earlier in the day and it was believed the body had been placed there after nightfall tonight.

Men Seen

A neighbor said she saw two young men in the vicinity of the lot about an hour before the body was found.

Scores of citizens joined police in searching for the two men whom the neighbor described as about 25 years of age and of medium height and build.

Search for the child was inaugurated this morning. The three children with whom the girl was playing yesterday were reported to have told officials that a man in an automobile had lured Marberine away on the promise of giving her some candy.

J. F. Scholes Has Aged Newspaper

A copy of the Ulster County Gazette, dated Saturday, January 4, 1800 is in the possession of J. F. Scholes, of the city building inspector's office.

On page four of the paper, which is black bordered, the story of the burial of George Washington is carried.

In the right hand column of the paper a poem, "written by a young lady" tells of the nation's grief because of the passing of Washington.

The paper was given to Scholes by his father a number of years ago.

MURDERER COMMITS SUICIDE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—UP—Apparently angered by a discharge, Charles Donlin, for many years a street car conductor here, shot and killed Byron F. Gunn, superintendent of the Market Street railway car barns, and then killed himself here tonight.

Donlin had been discharged by Gunn two weeks ago for being intoxicated while working.

As he entered the superintendent's office tonight he fired all six bullets in his revolver at Gunn and each of them entered the victim's body.

He walked out of the office, reloaded the revolver, and killed himself with a bullet through the head.

Witnesses said Donlin appeared to be either drunk or dazed as he went into Gunn's office.

According to police, Donlin started to drink several months ago when he was separated from his wife and he was warned once by his employer before losing his job.

The railway official was a brother of George Dunn, superintendent of the Bethlehem ship building corporation.

BAER WILL ENTER PLEA ON SEPT. 12

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—UP—While Max Baer, Livermore heavyweight prizefighter, today attended funeral services for Frankie Campbell, killed by his blows in the prize ring Monday night, Baer's lawyers lost their fight in municipal court for the reduction of Baer's bail.

Municipal Judge A. J. Fitz, in denying the plea to reduce the bail on the manslaughter charge from $10,000—a hitherto unheard of figure for that charge stated: "The amount was set by a superior judge. This is a serious case. The most that I can do is to accept a surety bond. Everything in this case must be gone into thoroughly, and I intend to see that it is."

Baer will appear in court September 12 to enter his plea.

Three bodies will investigate the case between now and that date. They are the San Francisco police, the Coroner's office, and the State Athletic commission.

Among the points to be investigated, said Commissioner of Boxing Charles Traung, will be to discover, if possible, why "Tillie" Herman, Los Angeles boxer, was attached to Campbell's cortege after having been employed

Alfred was caught in the mangling embrace of the animal and had his scalp nearly torn from his head before the rifle of a trainer ended the struggle.

With three companions, Alfred crawled through a fence at the zoo Tuesday and wandered through a jungle-like enclosure, ignoring warning signs. The youth hurdled another low fence when the tiger suddenly darted upon him, crushing the boy to the ground with his paw.

HIGH GRIDDERS PLAY TECH TODAY

The 1930 Richmond Union high school football season will commence this afternoon when the Richmond gridders go into battle against the squad of Oakland Technical high school on the Richmond Union high school gridiron.

Today's battle is one of those traditional affairs that cause the supporters of the elevens concerned in the battle to see nothing but a pigskin hurtling before their eyes during the weeks preceding the contest.

Enthusiasm and rivalry has risen to an unprecedented pitch at both the Richmond and Oakland institutions of learning. This high tide of excitement is mainly due to the 6 to 6 result of last year's annual "Tech" battle.

The gridders of both the local and Oakland schools are in readiness for today's clash. A hard week of practice has been experienced by the local athletes, and they feel in perfect condition to take "Tech" down the line.

Satisfaction with the display of football ability shown during practice by the Richmond high eleven has been expressed by Phil Hempler and Frank Ribbel, local high school coaches, and "Maj" Ivan W. Hill, former coach at Richmond Union high school. This game is the first varsity Red and Blue contest in which Hill will, for the first time in more than a decade, be in the rooting section instead of on the players' bench.

Those who are expected to see action today are: Juillerat, Gerletti, Passone, Bravin, Drexel and Boschetti, ends; Lilly, Ball, R. Drexel, and Roarke, tackles; Baxter, Hoeffer and Corrozo, guards; Hall, Brignone, centers; Scarsella, Masek, G. Miller and R. Miller, halfbacks; Stoddard, Snodgrass, quarterbacks; and Rosano and Brock, fullbacks.

The contest is scheduled to start at 3:45 this afternoon on the local high school field.

The records of former contests between the Richmond and "Tech" varsities are as follows:

Cards Defeat Cubs In 20 Inning Game

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—UP— The St. Louis Cards extended their winning streak to nine games when they defeated the Cubs today, 8 to 7 in a thrilling 20 inning battle.

After the Cubs had caused the retirement of Grimes in the seventh by scoring three times, Lindsey went to the mound for St Louis in the eighth. The Cubs pounded him for two runs, tying the score at 5 all.

The game appeared to be over when the Cards scored twice in the 15th, but two doubles, a sacrifice and a pair of singles again knotted the score this time at 7 all.

Johnson opened the 20th by striking out, but Douhit singled to center. Adams moved him to second by rolling to Kelly and High singled to center, scoring Douhit with the winning run.

The Cubs put the tying run on second with none away but could not get the run home.

The game was the longest of the season, requiring four hours and 10 minutes.

Jim Bottomley made a marvelous stop and throw in the 15th to retire the side after the Cubs had scored twice and had men on second and third.

STATE HORSE TO GO EAST FOR SEASON

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Aug. 28—Ervast, the California whirlwind, may go east this fall to match his skill against the star handicap runners of the eastern turf.

Walter Fenwick, trainer of the colt, in a wire to Baron Long, today, recommended such a course, informing the owner of his superb victory in the $5000 President's Plate, and stating in his opinion Ervast today can beat any horse in America over a distance of ground.

Fenwick would like to campaign Ervast at Laurel, Pimloco and Bowie, on the Maryland wheel, in order to prove to easteners that California has raised a horse of rare quality.

Large Stakes

"There are two stakes at Laurel that fit Ervast perfectly, and two more at Bowie," declared Fenwick. "The four aggregate more than $100,000 in added money, making them well worth while."

Ervast, it will be recalled, went to Kentucky for a shot at the derby. He was prevented from starting by a muddy track. Later he took ill and an attack of pneumonia was narrowly averted. After returning to his Viojas quarters he speedily recovered, but when in the heighth of condition, shortly before the initial Agua Caliente opening became ill and was unable to do himself justice until late in the season, when he defeated the Chicago sensation, My Dandy, in a six furlong sprint.

This summer, Ervast again was attended by some bad luck. After working in a sensational manner, the son of Paicines had to be thrown from training for two weeks, after a small quarter-crack appeared, the result of a small stone lodging beneath the steel shoe. This crack has healed and gave Ervast no trouble in the running of the President's Plate.

Offers Refused

Baron Long has three times refused big offers for Ervast. The first bid of $75,000, was made after he won eight straight races, when three years old. The sale would have been made, had not Ervast became the victim of an infected leg, and Long himself called off the deal.

Fred Kraft acting for Rudolph Spreckles last November offered $25,000 for Ervast. Long stated he did not care to sell at that time, as he wished to send Ervast after the first $100,000 Agua Caliente.

A few weeks ago James N. Crofton made a bid of $25,000 for the horse. This, too was rejected.

Should Ervast be sent East after the Agua Caliente gates close, on the summer meeting, it would be necessary to turn him over to another trainer, as Fenwick's time will be occupied in breaking and training twenty-seven yearlings on the private training track at Viejas ranch. Included in this lot is a half brother of Ervast.

Ervast's President's Plate triumph confirmed the opinion of owner and trainer, that the big gelding, who now has grown to closely resemble Exterminator, in appearance, conformation and mannerism, is a high class horse. He packed 120 pounds against 117 for Ironsides, a tried easterner, and beat the latter over a course of a mile and one eighth, in 1.49 4-5, record western time. He ran the fractional three quarters in 1.11 1-5 and the mile in 1.37, winning eased up by a length and a half.

Local Football Players Try For St. Mary's Eleven

The alumni of Richmond Union High school is being well represented on the St. Mary's football squad this season.

The Red and Blue veterans who are trying for positions on the Moraga valley eleven are Louis Accomazza, Joe Rountree, and Russell Lane.

All three men have had sensational grid careers during their years in high school. Lane will long be remembered for his sensational run of the entire Berkeley High school field for a touchdown in the Berkeley game last year.

Accomazza served consistently for Richmond in the position of fullback, while Joe Rountree never failed to make a great impression on his opponents in the line.

PEP GRID RALLY AT HIGH SCHOOL DRAWS LARGE CROWD

To yells of "Down With Tech" and the strains of the "Navy Blue and Red," 1000 pupils and hundreds more of Richmond Union high school alumni last night pledged themselves to the great cause—the defeat of Oakland Technical high school by the gridders of Richmond high this afternoon.

School loyalty first flared up last night at Sixth street, where the five-block long serpentine procession of Richmond rooters started their annual serpentine up Macdonald avenue. Criss-crossing the street, zig-zagging in and out of store entrances, and encircling telephone poles, the rooters wended their way to the Fox-California theater. There they stopped and yelled for victory.

Again they started on their serpentine, and marched to Twenty-third street, where the parade ended, and the mob of loyal pupils and alumni piled into trucks, outdowns and limousines and left for the high school.

Large Gathering

They gathered there in the high school boys' gymnasium augmented by hundreds more of 'old folks" out to see the fun.

Then the center of the gymnasium floor was taken by Phil Hempler, head coach at Richmond Union high school, Frank Ribbel, assistant coach of the local high school grid squad, "Maj" Ivan W. Hill, coach for more than ten years at Richmond high, and members of the grid team that will see action against Tech this afternoon.

Hill, who has produced several of the greatest wrecking crews of the eastbay, was enthusiastic in his praise of the Richmond varsity of 1930.

Hill Lauds Squad

"After ten years here, I believe," stated Hill, "that you have on this field this year one of the best teams you have ever had. You have the best spirit, the best men, and the best coaches around the bay."

Both Hempler and Ribbel congratulated the Student Body on its support that was displayed at last night's rally.

"With all the support you have given them, they're bound to come out on top," Hempler said.

Pep Talk

In a short pep talk, Ribbel said: "I think we've got a team that will be awfully hard to beat, a team to be proud of, and a bunch that won't throw us down."

Several prominent local gridders including Dave Lilly, Jack Stoddard, Clarence Hall (smallest man on the squad), and Ray Juillerat, were called to the floor, and stated their determination to win their first game and all following contests of the coming season. The entire team was then called to the floor, where they paraded with the casket containing the imaginary corpse of "Tech" hoisted upon their shoulders.

The evening of hilarity and excitement culminated in the setting alight of the giant bonfire built in the fields immediately behind the high school. With the first blaze that arose from the pile of boxes and barrels, the entire crowd of high school pupils breathed one big sigh of relief. Ill luck has haunted the construction of this year's pyramid of wood. On Wednesday night after the pile had been almost completed by the sophomore class, it mysteriously went up in smoke before its awe-struck makers.

Wood Burned

However, this did not end the determination of the high school supporters to have their annual rally. A mass meeting was called yesterday morning, and the entire Student Body answered the summons to rebuild Tech's funeral pyre. Early in the afternoon, another blaze caused by smouldering embers caused the destruction of several more loads of wood. Still undaunted, the students proceeded to rebuild the pile, and were able to see their handiwork blossom out into a scorching blaze last evening.

Last night's festivities were presided over by Harman Jatta and Bill Young, Richmond Union high school yell leaders, while the music was furnished by the Richmond Union high school band under the direction of George Morris.

This year's rally was probably the largest and most successful ever held at the local high school, and the gridders of the Red and Blue will go into battle this afternoon with the knowledge that their school is behind them 100 percent strong.

Bruin Routed By Sheepman's Hat

KAKIMA, Wash.—Most hunters go after bear with high calibered guns and dogs—but all a certain Klickitat valley sheepherder needs is his sombrero.

Herders in the upper Klickitat valley ranges have been troubled by 20 or more bears that have proved a constant menace to the flocks of ewes and lambs in that section.

In one instance a big bear had cut a band of approximately 100 sheep from the flocks and was heading them back into the hills when discovered.

The herder chased the bear from his intended prey in a bold attack. He swung his hat across the animal's face and the surprised bear forgot his lamb repast and took to the bushes.

Shipping Pony Proves Costly

MESA, Ariz.—UP—Shipping an ordinary Arizona cow pony across the United States may seem foolish to an Arizonan, but it cost Mrs. J. C. Hubbard, wealthy Boston society matron, $200 to have a horse sent from Mesa to her home the other day. Mrs. Hubbard, a recent guest here, became attached to the animal and upon her return to the Massachusetts city, wired for her favorite pony.

COCO COLA KING FACES BALM ACTION

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—UP—A $500,000 breach of promise suit against Joseph B. Whitehead, millionaire official of the Coca Cola Co., was filed in supreme court today by Annette S. Bracy of 77 Park Ave.

Whitehead answered almost immediately. He not only denied her charges but named by initials only, a number of socially and financially prominent men who he said, shared Miss Bracy's affections.

The plaintiff said Whitehead originally had asked her to marry him on Nov. 15, 1928, and had repeated his proposal in September, 1929. She was thus unprepared, she claimed, to read last February of his marriage to Laura Saffield.

Whitehead in his answer said he had met her aboard the Olympic in 1929 and at first had been attracted to her in the belief that she was a "gentlewoman."

He admitted they had taken a trip to Europe and Africa together, but declared that Miss Bracy understood at all times that he was not to marry her.

MA FERGUSON RETIRES FROM POLITICS

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 28.—After 16 stormy years in Texas politics, the Fergusons, "Pa" and "Ma", have decided definitely that their names will never appear on a Democratic primary ballot.

Breaking the silence they had maintained since Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson was defeated in her campaign for the gubernatorial nomination last week, they issued a statement in which they deplored—but resigned themselves to—the fact that about a quarter million of their supporters are "too poor to pay poll tax."

Mrs. Ferguson explained also the reason for her failure to con-batants leaving Dos Rakes with the revolver. Now he must appear in city court tomorrow on a charge of unlawful possession of the revolver.

Vivian's Big Brother Hits Lease In Brawl

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28.—UP—A "big brother's vengeance" today had avenged Vivian Duncan, noted dancer, for the black eye she said she received from Rex Lease about a month ago when she refused the actor a kiss after a party at Malibu beach.

Meeting Lease late last night in a Hollywood cafe, Hal Duncan, brother of Vivian and Rosetta, stepped up to the debonair screen leading man.

"Are you Rex Lease?" Charles Eaton, owner of the cafe quoted Duncan as saying.

"Yes," replied eLase, and according to startled witnesses, got no further.

Duncan delivered the one punch of the encounter to a point somewhere between Lease's jaw and eye. Friends of the actor's rushed him away before he had time to retaliate if he so desired, it was said.

Lease recently was fined $50 on a battery count for the alleged "cave man" exhibition with Miss Duncan.

Vivian, after recovering from a black eye, went to Reno and was married to Nils Asther, Swedish screen actor.

Buenos Aires Under Guard

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—UP—Persistant but unconfirmed reports were current in Buenos Aires tonight that a group of official political committees had ordered an army of 5000 well armed men held in readiness as labor unrest and tension spread through the city.

An emergency appeared anticipated but officials denied trouble was expected. The authorities insisted rumors of threatened outbreaks were false.

Machine guns were placed in the post office tonight, however, as well as at various government buildings, adding to the armament already mobilized in the vicinity of President Hipolito Irigoyen's residence.

A heavy police guard was "mysteriously" established at the chief executive's home, with machine guns placed at strategic points on nearby roofs.

Rolph Opposed By Dry Groups

Mrs. Eva Wheeler, president of the state W. C. T. U., announced that a conference of dry leaders will be held in Los Angeles Aug 30 for the purpose of organizing to oppose the Rolph candidacy in the November election.

Time Fliers Pass 58th Hour In Air

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28.—UP—The yellow and orange biplane "on to regon" in which the Rankin brothers, Tex and Dick, hope to break the present world's refueling record continued to wing along monotonously over Rankin field tonight as the fliers passed their 58th hour in the air at 6:45 p. m.

MANY USES FOR OLD BOXES

Mother's wishes may cause father lots of hard work on his next camping trip if she takes along a kit of carpenter tools, some nails and a copy of the Department of Commerce publication "You Can Make It."

Inspired by the title of this booklet and by the drawings of the finished product, vacationists in the national forests of California may soon be taking up the carpenter trade and hammering their thumbs or sawing holes in their knickers instead of stalking elusive trout or hiking over the mountain trails, say officers of the U. S. Forest Service. Father may not get all the sun tan that is coming to him but mother may get a lot of things made that she has been wanting for a long time if she takes this publication seriously.

Apparently you can construct most anything your heart desires from most any box, packing case, sugar barrel, orange crate, or whatnot, if you follow the directions given in the bulletin. To make construction easy, there is a drawing for every article, with specifications collected from experts the world over by the National committee on Wood Utilization.

Beach sandals to blue bird houses, bookcases to bathtub boats, rabbit traps to reading tables—any jack-of-all-trades camper, or his wife or children, can fashion them from wooden containers usually broken up for kindling or thrown away. The material is light and cheap. The work is easy, rough-and-ready, or artistically painstaking, according to the temperament (or sex) of the summer woods dweller.

When the patriarch of the camp gets tired of making windvanes for the grandchildren and woodbaskets for the fireside, he can turn ambitiously to building cabinets, refrigerators and vanities. The universal beauty seeker who is not satisfied with the homespun plainness of this furniture need do nothing more than get a brush and apply a coat of paint, varnish, or lacquer to his heart's content.

An appendix to the bulletin, written by Major R. Y. Stuart, chief of the U. S. Forest Service, tells of the great destruction wrought by forest fires and gives a number of simple fire prevention rules for campers and vacationists.

The tools needed, the designs and directions to guide the eye and the mind of the worker, and the methods of reclaiming boxes, which will conserve a portion of the nation's waste of four billion feet of box lumber annually, are set forth in the booklet, which may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., at a cost of 10 cents.

CHANEY'S LAST PICTURE NOW AT FOX

A voice that the world has been waiting over a year to hear speaks from the screen at the Fox-California theater, where Lon Chaney is appearing in his first talkie, "The Unholy Three."

Choice of his famous silent success for his debut as a vocal star was happy, for it enables Chaney to use five different voice disguises. In fact, it is as difficult for his fans to guess what his voice really sounds like as it is to guess what the make-up master's face is really like, when not disguised.

The new Metro Goldwyn Mayer mystery thriller deals with the story of a ventriloquist, giant and midget in a circus who band together in one of the strangest plots ever seen on film or stage. Adapted originally from the story by Tod Robbins, a fiction hit of some years ago, it is woven into an enthralling romance with the audience in suspense to the very last.

Chaney's voice is probably baritone—at least two of his voice disguises were in the bass and baritone class. His impersonation of the old woman, with the reedy feminine voice of old age, was startling in its naturalness. One could hardly believe that the wizened creature was a man. The ventriloquial act, with Chaney carrying on a conversation with himself via the dummy, was perfectly done.

Aside from the interest in Chaney's voice, "The Unholy Three" is a magnificent piece of entertainment, moving at a lightning pace, and with never a slack movement or letup in the gripping air of mystery. Jack Conway's direction is superb, and the odd camera effects by Percy Hillburn do much to heighten the mystery.

Lila Lee, as the heroine, plays a "hardboiled" role until the final love sequences, and runs the entire gamut of human emotions in a splendid performance, and Elliott Nugent, as the clerk, "Hector," gives a finely-balanced impersonation.

Harry Earles, the midget, grabs many honors for himself.

BUDDY ROGERS COMES TO FOX TOMORROW

"My Future Just Passed" is the big hit song of Charles "Buddy" Rogers' latest starring picture, entitled "Safety In Numbers" tuneful and merry musicalove confection, which comes to the Fox-California theater tomorrow.

But in spite of the paradoxical title of the song, Rogers is so engaging and "It"-ful in this picture that there isn't anyone who would deny that he still has a most distinguished future which will probably take a long time in passing.

"Buddy" has a way about him that just gets to everybody. He's handsome, spirited, capable sparkling with youth, emanating the good old American pep.

He does things in this picture which are right down his alley. Sings several songs, plays the trombone, battles his love-rival in a whirlwind fistic encounter and makes love—to five different girls, three of them the most bewitching of Hollywood's younger blond contingent, Josephine Dunn, Virginia Bruce and Carol Lombard.

The story is an original—a wow of a plot idea, written by George Marion, Jr., and Percy Heath. Marion was co-author of "Sweetie" and Heath adapted "Close Harmony."

"Buddy" is seen as the young American boy with music in his veins and an inheritance of 350 million dollars in store for his approaching 21st birthday. But his uncle and guardian, deciding to discipline "Buddy" and to accustom him to the wiles of the world, entrusts him to the custody of three Follies girls in New York. Of course "Buddy" falls in love with the girls and many complications ensue — principally of a highly hilarious nature. But the youngster proves his worth as a business-man before the film ends, by writing a hit number for a musical show.

Social Change Idea Lauded By Savant At U. C.

BERKELEY, Aug. 28.—An increase in the amount of freedom and self expression afforded children makes it necessary for a corresponding change in the social system, where social studies are concerned.

That is the belief of Henry M. Grant, director of the Social Hygiene Education association of California, who will inaugurate a class in sex education for the extension division of the University of California, this week in the bay region.

"The world of today is a vastly different place from the one that most parents lived in 10 or 20 years ago," he states. "Nowadays young people have a freedom for which they are quite unprepared, measured by schools of the old type, and modern education must teach discipline by making children responsible for the proper use of their time."

Backgrounds and methods involved in sex and sex control problems with emphasis on the normal will be dealt with in the study, it is stated.

Bankhead Girl Declares Fifth Marriage Last

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—Five marriages against four divorces and annulments was the marital score of Eugenia Bankhead-Hoyt-Butt-Lee, daughter of Congressman W. B. Bankhead of Alabama, as she walked into court today in quest of an annulment of her marriage with Howard Lee, aviator and sportsman.

The hearing opened Tuesday, with Mrs. Lee testifying that her fifth husband had misrepresented his social standing to her by telling her that he was an official of an aviation company and earned $24,000 a year.

Mrs. Lee, incidentally, informed the judge that this will be her last marital venture if she receives the annulment.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28.—Live-stock entered by the 4-H agricultural clubs at the state fair, under the direction of the University of California Agricultural Extension Service, will be judged on the opening day, Saturday, August 30. This announcement was made today by W. G. Waterhouse, assistant state leader of clubs, in charge of the state fair exhibits.

Prof. E. H. Hughes of the animal husbandry division, Davis, will judge the hogs, which include about 150 entries in the pig feeding contest and approximately 60 purebred hogs. Prof. R. F. Miller will judge the sheep, of which about 35 or 40 are expected. It is expected that 60 or 70 dairy calves will be entered, of which 35 or 40 will be Jerseys, and the rest divided between Holstein and Guernsey. These will be judged by S. W. Mead of the animal husbandry division.

Hogs to Be Sold

On 4-H club day, which is to be September 5, there will be an auction sale of fat hogs by the California Swine Breeders Association, and approximately 100 of the hogs from the pig feeding contest will be consigned to this sale. The rest will be returned by their entrants to compete in local and district fairs.

The cups for the pig feeding contest, together with cash prizes, will be presented to the winners in front of the grandstand Friday afternoon. The California National Bank in the northern district, the American Trust Company in the coast district, and the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards in the southern district, have offered silver cups to the regional winners. The Bank of Italy will give a permanent trophy for the sweepstakes winner.

Boys and Girls to Attend

The annual 4-H club convention is to be held at the University of California farm next week, with about 1100 boys and girls from all parts of the state in attendance. On club day at the fair, these delegates will be taken to the state fair in two special trains, leaving Davis at 8 o'clock in the morning, and leaving the fair grounds on return at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. In addition to these club members, hundreds more who are not to attend the convention, will be at the fair on Friday.

In addition to other entertainment planned for them, these club members will be given a basket lunch on the lawn in front of the main building, with ice cream and milk fro mthe University of California dairy industry plant at Davis. In the afternoon they will sing before the grandstand the two club songs: "We're for Club Work," the California song, and the "Plowing Song," the national song of 4-H clubs.

Prohi Accused Of Extortion In Trial

SEATTLE, Aug. 28.—UP—A sensation was created in the courtroom of the Lyle-Whitney conspiracy trial today when Jack McBride, surprise witness for the government made direct charges of extortion against William Whitney, former prohibition enforcement official.

RESPIRATOR SAVES LIFE OF MAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—UP—There was another marked improvement today in the condition of Irving S. Johnson, 25, head of a local publishing company, whose life is being saved by the only Drinker respirator in the far west.

Nurses attending Johnson said he was getting along "very nicely."

Johnson has been suffering from infantile paralysis which affected his diaphram. Shortly after he entered the hospital treatment by the artificial breather, a new invention, began.

For a week it was necessary to keep him under the respirator constantly. Then it was removed for a brief period and now Johnson can breathe for many minutes at a time without its aid.

In order that the young man might live, physicians were forced to forfeit the life of Miss May McCullough, 35, who became afflicted with the same ailment after the lone respirator had been given to Johnson.

As a result a campaign to furnish every hospital in the city with the appliance has progressed rapidly.

COURSE IN PRE VIEWING TO BE GIVEN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—The announcement of an extension course in "Dramatic Appreciation and Pre-Viewing," to be opened in Los Angeles on September 16 by the Extension Division of the University of California, brings forth the information that this will be the first time that such a course of instruction has ever been offered by the Extension division, and the first time, so far as is known, that such a course has ever been offered to the public anywhere. It will be a morning class, meeting at 10 o'clock each Tuesday morning for a period of six weeks, and will be in charge of Mrs. Alice O. Hunnewell, instructor in English at the University of California at Los Angeles.

According to Mrs. Hunnewell the course is designed to fit club women for the task of previewing films for the motion picture producers and distributors of America, the organization headed by Will Hays. This organization fosters previewing groups of club women who meet each day at the Academy of Moving Picture Arts, in Hollywood, to preview newly completed films. These previewing groups, she states, are comprised of representatives of the Women's University club, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Catholic Womans' club, the Los Angeles Parent-Teacher association and the California Federation of clubs.

The course will include instruction in standards of judging moving pictures from dramatics and educational angles, reading of current dramas, actual preview of a selective group of moving pictures, and preparation and delivery of reports suitable for club presentation.

Driver Injured In Auto Crash Saves Children

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 28.—UP—Handicapped by a fractured knee, Charles H. Wells, 32, stumbled and crawled 100 yards along a road in the Hollywood hills Wednesday night to save his wife and 3-year-old child from plunging over a 250-foot cliff in a driverless automobile.

Wells and his family were driving up to see Peter the Hermit, widely known Hollywood recluse and motion picture extra. Wells' hat blew off an while he was retrieving it the brakes of his car failed and the vehicle started to back toward the edge of the cliff. Racing for it he stumbled and fractured his knee.

Dragging himself along, Wells reached the machine and stopped it at the edge of the precipice.

DENTAL DEAN RETURNS TO U. C.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. — Dean Guy S. Millberry of the University of California College of Dentistry has just returned from a six week's trip through the United States for the purpose of studying all phases of public health dental service, to be used in connection with his survey of public health dental service in the Hawaiian Islands, and as a supplement to his participation in the White House conference on Child Welfare, and on the committee on the cost of medical and dental care.

Dean Millberry visited Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Maryland. In these states he made investigations of community, county and state dental service in the public health system, and visited the dental departments of educational institutions. He expects to use this material for comparisons with California and Hawaii, in both of which he has made special investigations.

Attended Professional Meetings

On the way, also, he attended meetings of the California Conference of Social Agencies, the western branch of the American Public Health association, the Idaho State Dental society, and the American Dental association.

One trouble with public health work in some sections of the United States, Dean Millberry states, is a lack of centralization. In Massachusetts, for example, with an area of 200 square miles, less than that of Kern county in California, but with 12,000,000 people, the public health system is administered by the town selectmen, and there are 355 separate townships in the state. There is little or no coordination between these townships, with the exception of four in the northwestern part of the state, and it would be better if the public health work were concentrated in the 14 counties of the state. The county unit, he believes is the best basis for public health programs, including dental public health.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

The Price of Popularity

IF there's one letter which this and, probably, every woman's column receives oftener than another, it is the plea for a popularity prescription. Needless to say, practically all requests for the recipe come from girls—most men are so sublimely, enviably certain that they must and will be loved for themselves alone!

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

With the other sex, matters are different. It is far too often the woman of it to be apprehensive about the impression made upon one's social group, about one's attractiveness to acquaintances, friends, lovers. A simply incalculable amount of good feminine energy is lost in the anxiety and the ardent endeavor to make a hit at parties, to be a telephone number for a long list of males, to win admiration for looks and charm and "pep."

The price of popularity, as of liberty, is eternal vigilance. Or, rather, a part of the price. Other items include hypocrisy—the frequent concealment of one's natural moods and ideas in order to displease nobody; boredom—for, since the number of clever and amusing persons is limited, the girl determined to be generally popular must spend much time and patience on dumbbells; humiliation when, after one's best efforts to please, one is a "frost."

This can be indeed the nadir of humiliation—we know! Once, at fifteen, we attended a party in a town where we were a complete stranger; the invitation came from friends of the aunt we were visiting. Everybody but us knew everybody else. We were the country cousin, clothes and all. We went through the games with a frozen smile, too scared to say an unnecessary syllable. And the skeleton at the feast must have a positively jovial time, compared to the gloomy agony, the complete self-distrust which harrowed us for the duration of that appalling evening.

POPULARITY as a feminine ideal is not, we have come to the conclusion, worth the suffering which it has imposed on us, on many of our correspondents, on our sex at large. The price of popularity may be too high. Personally, we long ago decided to be the sort of person we are, to like the persons whom we like, to do our job and not to worry about what others think of us. We are writing today about the popularity mirage and the hard, useless chase it leads many women because we have just found a most interesting discussion of the whole matter by Brenda Ueland in the current Harper's.

"Nearly all women," Miss Ueland begins, with blunt candor, "suffer in social life from a feeling of inferiority which might be called the wallflower complex."

Then she explains how it afflicts them—from the dances at which nobody cuts in upon them; or at which they have to dance with dubs, instead of the man of their choice, for fear of being thought "unpopular"—to the purgatory of perpetual spinsterhood. She dwells feelingly upon the social sufferings of the woman who hasn't a popular "line," a flirtatious archness which she can turn on at every party—who cannot be "the kind of girl who jumps up and down stiff-legged in one spot clapping her hands, whose volatile laugh goes off if a youth looks cross-eyed or wiggles his ears."

Again, "the wallflower feeling," she points out, "accounts for our fear of not being married, for our deep depression when some fourth-rate man, whom we would not think of accepting, withdraws his attentions; for a wallflower, you see, must hang on frantically to what she can get no matter what a sad bird he is.

"Bachelors seldom feel inferior because they are not married. They may think sadly that it is too bad, but they seldom regard their singleness as a matter for shame. And bachelors seldom have that 'waiting-for-a-telephone-call' feeling. Why should women have it, as all of them do, beautiful and plain? Why should a young woman wait for a man to telephone her if she knows his number?"

JUST here comes our only criticism of Miss Ueland's argument. Many a young woman nowadays does not "wait for a man to telephone her"—she telephones him. But does she escape the "unpopularity" reaction of spine-sinking sickness, when he "stalls her off"? She does NOT—especially if she has a brother and has heard his comments on girls who chase him by phone or letter, who, in his blandly assured phrase, "always come back!"

The weapon in our opinion, with which to combat the wallflower complex is not aggressive action but aggressive resistance; not "going after" people but a tough-minded, take-me-or-leave-me attitude toward them, a "what of it" shrug at the thought that they may not admire one. After all, the world is so full of a number of things besides parties and the attentions of any individual! And if a woman goes simply and straightforwardly at the business of doing her job and being herself, her very independence is likely, in the end, to attract. For, as Miss Ueland truly says, "the real secret of magnetism and social charm is self-confidence and assurance and bold honesty."

Men, as a sex, learned this secret long ago. It's high time women did likewise!

The night is young and sails are set—
A longing drowns regrets;

The clouds are far apart;
A maiden weeps on yonder shore
Because of empty heart.

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

"DAD, where does Cork come from? Cork?"

"No, it comes from a tree."

"Gee, do corks grow on trees just like apples? I'd like to see a cork tree."

"No, son, the corks don't grow on trees. Cork is the bark of certain trees called the cork oak or cork tree."

"Is the oak out at the farm a cork oak?"

"No, it's a red oak."

"Where do the cork trees grow? In Cork?"

"No, in France and Spain."

"Why do they call Cork Cork if cork doesn't grow there?"

"I don't know, son, but Cork, Ireland, has nothing to do with cork."

"That's a corker, isn't it, Dad?"

"Oh, go to bed."

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

There are few housewives nowadays, even in rural districts, who bake their own bread. Bakers' wagons go to most of the out of the way districts carrying excellent, uniform loaves of every sort of bread and it is sold at such a low price that it is actually a saving to buy bread instead of making it one's self.

KAREN HOLLIS

Many a housewife, however, even some who struggle against the space limitations of a kitchenette, like to give their family an occasional treat in the way of home-made buns for breakfast. Sunday morning breakfast can be made a gala affair if you will take the trouble to make these delicious, spicy buns for breakfast. The pungent aroma of cinnamon stealing through the house will make the family come tumbling out of bed and rushing to the breakfast table.

The dough must be mixed the night before baking, and about half an hour allowed in the morning to let the buns rise after they are rolled. But they are well worth the time and trouble.

BOHEMIAN KOLATCHEN

½ cup evaporated milk
½ cup water
½ cake compressed yeas
Flour (about 4 cups)
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup butter
2 eggs
¼ teaspoon salt
Grated rind of one-half lemon
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Pinch of mace
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup mixed raisins, preserved cherries, chopped prunes
½ cup sugar.
Melted butter
Cinnamon

Heat milk and water to scalding point and then cool to lukewarm. Dissolve the yeast cake in the warm milk and add enough flour to make a stiff batter. Beat hard for several minutes and put aside in a warm place to rise. Cream the butter and sugar, add eggs and beat until light, then add lemon juice and rind, sugar, salt and spices. Add this mixture to the batter, stirring well, and then add flour enough to make a soft dough. Knead well, cover, put in a warm place and let it stand over night.

In the morning take out the dough by spoonfuls on a floured board, knead each piece and pat out to a round of one inch thickness. Place close together in a buttered pan and brush with melted butter. Sprinkle with mixture of chopped fruit, sugar and cinnamon and let rise for about one-half hour. Bake in a hot oven for about twenty-five minutes.

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

SOME people are lucky.

Some people are unlucky.

It pays to do business and to associate with those who are lucky. I know girls who fall out of one job and into another with lightning rapidity. Why?

They never worry about their jobs. They KNOW there is some place for them and they gravitate toward it just as the needle points toward the North and doesn't care why.

You can become lucky by changing your attitude toward things and people.

You can become lucky by stopping your worry, which is nothing but FEAR.

Have you tried it?

Freshen the Mattres.

IT is senseless to expect a mattress to stand up year after year without some care and freshening. Send the hair mattress out to a repair man and have it sterilized once in two years. Then with a little new hair added the mattress may be kept in its pristine condition at little expense and offer far greater comfort.

Likewise send the feather pillows to a reliable laundry. They will return plump and clean and it is much easier than to have them done at home where drying facilities are not of the best. Fifty cents for having a pillow tubbed and sterilized is little cost to have it seem like new.

Modernizing the Home -:- Spending One's Little Where It Counts Most

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I have been an avid reader of your articles since their first appearance and have derived a great deal of pleasure and information from them. I have never utilized any of the suggestions for the simple reason that I am neither married nor in a financial position to take up the improvement of my home now.

With a limited income it seems well nigh a hopeless task, but I am in despair about bringing friends home because of the poverty-stricken air it presents. Now my decision is made; by rigid economy I shall manage somehow to scrape up enough money within the next month to make at least the living room presentable. I have some ideas on the subject, but I do not care to trust my untrained judgment.

As you will notice on the inclosed plan, the room is used for a variety of purposes. At night the daybed is used by my two brothers, while during the day the room is in constant use as a home work room for my sisters and brothers and their numerous friends. It devolves upon me, therefore, to develop the room from a standpoint of interesting color and cozy details. The materials used must be capable of surviving hard wear.

The only large purchases I expect to make are these: The sofa and daybed will be dispensed with in favor of one piece of furniture that will do the double duty. In lieu of one arm chair we may buy a chair-bed. A new floor covering is an absolute necessity, and since the floor is ugly, a complete covering would be advisable instead of a rug. Can you suggest pattern and color?

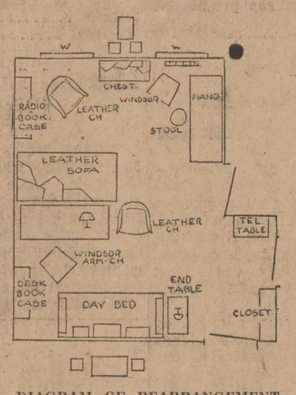
Blue and gold had occured to me as an attractive color scheme, but that may be too prosaic and obvious. Would you suggest something else? As accessories I thought of a large hassock in front of the sectional bookcase, an end table and bridge lamp next to the arm chair, a table lamp and a magazine rack. I wonder if I ought to use pictures and where I ought to use them. The panel above the bookcase and radio seems a likely place. I have a lovely marine picture in shades of blue and sunset. Could I use this anywhere in the room?

Of course I need not reiterate that I must keep expenses low as I can without sacrificing quality and distinction. What would you estimate as the probable cost of my improvements? I appreciate to the utmost your every effort to help me.

(Miss) R. H.

THIS FRIENDLY CORNER (COMPARABLE TO THE DESK-GROUP IN MISS H.'S ROOM) ILLUSTRATES WELL THE CHARM OF VERY SIMPLE THINGS.

home decoration program, we need can be had at 69 cents to $1 in many departments. On top of the chest a pad of fairly dark sateen, bound with a brighter tone (as brown with yellow piping), would furnish a nice foundation for tailored cushions in contrasting colors repeating tones in the curtain fabric. One big arm chair and one of the new Windsor arm chairs placed at either side of the chest would complete the immediate group, to which we may also add the large leather sofa placed at right angles to the wall and facing the windows.



ORIGINAL FLOOR PLAN

DIAGRAM OF REARRANGEMENT

This sofa may be covered with the same figured material as that used for curtains, and piled up in one corner it would be nice to have plenty of sateen pillows in bright plain colors. Or if Miss H. does not wish to slip-cover the sofa, it could be left in the brown leather and have bright cushions of some leathery-looking fabric such as permatex or fabrikoid perhaps in yellow and red tones.

If price becomes a question when shopping for the new Windsor arm chairs, they can be bought unfinished and painted at home. A soft old yellow would be a good color for them, if Miss H. likes yellow; if not, a good dark brown, leaving the color accents elsewhere in the room. The bookcase is needed to balance the desk-bookcase on the long wall, and its volumes in various colored bindings will also provide color and interest. Then, coming to the other extreme end of the room, we can build another nice group by using the "live-dine" table just back of the leather sofa and the daybed against the wall, with the second easy chair at the end of the table and the second Windsor placed conveniently nearby. For the right arm of the daybed a single end table—perhaps modern in line—could be bought unfinished and either painted or stained dark brown.

Much can be done to better the appearance of the old daybed by recovering it with dull gold sateen bound with brown and giving it pillow rolls of the gold sateen at each end, with loose pillows repeating the reds and yellows in the room. Then, echoing the idea of the prints grouped above the chest at the opposite end of the room, the wall space just above the daybed may have another pretty group of pictures, one that is fairly large (perhaps Miss H.'s marine picture) and a few smaller ones at each side.

A good many changes have gone on in this room, not one of which happens to be expensive. The many-purpose aspect of the room has not been changed but amplified by a congenial arrangement which affords nice privacy for two groups gathered at either end of the room. But best of all perhaps, is the fact that the changes and additions suggested will be kindly to the old pieces, which must carry on for a while. The rich, lively colors, the soft sheen of the sateen, which is lustrous without being showy, and the interesting pattern of curtains and slip-covered sofa all coax the eye and the spirit away from deficiencies, and through their very unpretentiousness do not impute inferiority to their old companions.

In case Miss H. cannot make all improvements at once, the changes suggested run in the order of their importance: first, the rug; then the curtains, the Windsor chairs, couch covers, prints, lamps and pillows; and last, the end table.

We should like to see this room when it is finished for we are confident it will bring much happiness to big and little members of the family . . . and that Miss H. will find it quite worthy of friends who appreciate real values . . . and incidentally the very fine attitude she shows toward her problem.

Gas Stove Management

If your gas stove burns a yellow or white flame you are liable to have soot on the bottom of all cooking utensils. A proper gas flame consists of sharp and distinct blue cones with purple edges and if your stove does not burn this way the flame needs more air, which may be secured by proper adjustment of the air shutter.

TELLING THE WORLD

BUILD YOUR OWN MIDGET GOLF COURSE

YOU can easily construct your own miniature golf course in your spare back yard. Just follow these simple directions for the first nine holes.

Visit a junk yard and secure an old kitchen stove, a second hand bowling alley and three bushels of assorted junk. This gives you a nucleus for your private links.

FIRST HOLE—Saw off a ten-foot section of the bowling alley and tilt it upward at a grade of 45 degrees. Hammer a few marlin spikes in the surface to make the ball's progress more difficult and at the end of this beautiful fairway use a thimble for a cup. Par, 41 strokes.

SECOND HOLE—Dismantle the old kitchen stove and use the stovepipe for the fairway. If there is a damper in the stovepipe, so much the better. It makes the hole sportier, especially when turned on. At the far end of the stovepipe put a barbed wire entanglement in front of the cup. A few "Keep off the grass" signs may also be added as an extra mental hazard. Par, 37 strokes and two fits.

THIRD HOLE—Drive a stake through the top end of one of grandma's old cotton stockings that has a hole in the toe. Tie a knot in the middle of the stocking to make this hole slightly more difficult to play. Par, 63.

FOURTH HOLE—Nail six old-fashioned scrubbing boards together lengthwise. At the end of this fairway place a sieve, just in front of the cup. Leave a few clinkers in the sieve to add zest to this hole. Par, 17. Try and get it.

FIFTH HOLE—Twist a section of a rainspout in the form of a letter S. At the far end of this spout place a rain barrel to afford a water hazard. Then around the cup sprinkle eight packs of salt. If the player succeeds in surmounting the water hazard he will think the salt is snow and go to pieces then. You can have a rule for this hole that any player shaking a pinch of salt on the golf ball's tail captures a birdie. Par, 41 strokes, including paralysis.

SIXTH HOLE—Take a 12-foot plank and cover it with sticky flypaper. Half way to the cup tack an optician's chart upright on the fairway, with only the letter "O" punched through. In order to play this hole a niblick shot is needed to lift the ball off the flypaper and through the hole in the chart. A cocaine shot will also help. When playing under winter rules the sticky flypaper may be discarded and fresh glue used instead. Par, 82.

SEVENTH HOLE—Wrap an old quilt around two ironing boards, placed lengthwise, for the fairway and place three detour signs in front of the hole. Divots must be replaced on this hole, so a player must not only be an expert golfer but should also know how to tuft a quilt. Par, 100—103 asked, 93 bid.

EIGHTH HOLE—A dog-leg effect can be secured for this hole by making it go at right angles through a hot-dog stand. Use an empty mustard jar for the cup. Par, 39.

NINTH HOLE—Nail six pairs of skis close together for the fairway, with the curved toes at the far end. These will keep sending the ball back till the toes wear out. Par for this hole should be about 1,225, although the Government Bureau of Standards has not released its official figures yet.

When you have played these holes send $2.40 in stamps and we will give directions for the next nine holes.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

DUTTON FOUND NOT GUILTY BY JURY

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—UP—"Not guilty by reason of insanity" was the verdict arrived at today by a jury of eight men and four women after an hour and a half deliberation on the case of Warren D. Dutton, Mendocino county rancher on trial for the murder of Robert Arnolde, taxicab driver.

The verdict was returned in the court of Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco, who, a few minutes later, sentenced the defendant to the State Hospital at Napa.

Dutton's incarceration may last only one year, for according to law, after that time has elapsed he may ask for freedom on the grounds that he is cured, if hospital physicians concur.

Mrs. Dutton, wife of the wealthy rancher, was not in court. The accused man had attempted to excuse his act by blaming his temporary derangement to worry over her asserted affairs with other men.

Edgar Boot, accused by Dutton of intimacy with his wife, was in court, however, as was the father of the defendant.

Chauncey Tramutolo and George M. Naus were the defense attorneys. The prosecution, handled by Assistant District Attorney William Murphy, made no attempt to break down Dutton's plea of insanity.

Arnolde, a taxi driver, was shot to death on the morning of May 12, by Dutton, who had just alighted from his cab. There was no motive for the shooting.

Jury Praises Dead Aviator

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—UP—Lieut. John P. Deshazo, navy air ace who crashed his plane in flames at the National air races, died a hero, a coroner's jury decided today.

Deshazo, said the jury, dived his plane to the ground in the only available space to avoid killing scores of spectators. As it was, he killed one, Louis Weiner, and injured more than a dozen slightly.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Deshazo and Weiner and recommended that safety regulations be enforced at the airport, particularly in connection with aviation flying over the stands.

TRAIN WORKER MAY DIE IN CRASH

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Aug. 28.—UP—Twenty-one passengers and a trainman suffered injuries early today when two of the Southern Pacific's fastest trains were involved in a crash near the San Luis Obispo station.

Peter J. Leon, a San Luis Obispo employe of the road, was the only person seriously injured. He was coupling a steam hose under the Pardee when the locomotive of the Lark ploughed into the Pardee's observation car. Leon's left leg was severed and he was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Paul Shoup, president of the Southern Pacific, was asleep in his private car attached to the Padre at the time of the rear end collision. He was uninjured and took charge of relief work.

Stopped For Repairs

The Padre had stopped for repairs at San Luis Obispo and for some reason the Lark failed to stop as it roared into the station. An investigation was started at once to determine the cause of the accident. Both trains were bound from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

Only the fact that all passengers had left the observation car and retired saved a heavy toll of injuries and possibly deaths, trainmen declared.

Edna Purviance, former leading woman to Charles Chaplin, motion picture comedian, was on the Padre and suffered minor hurts. All passengers continued to San Francisco after the wreckage had been cleared several hours after the crash.

Miss Purviance Hurt

Injured passengers included:

Miss Edna Purviance, film actress, Los Angeles, head injuries.

Peter Leon, Southern Pacific Train Inspector, leg severed below knee.

H. M. Bayley, San Francisco, neck injured.

Harry Bush, Senator Hotel, San Francisco, song writer.

Thomas Fitzgerald, Chicago.

MARINES AID AT CHANEY RITES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—UP—With impressive yet simple funeral services in which the United States Marines played a prominent role, Lon Chaney, recognized as Hollywood's greatest charactor actor, was buried here late today.

In accordance with the actor's last wishes only his relatives and closest friends were in attendance while Chaplain R. S. Dyer of the San Diego Marine base read a brief Episcopalian service in the chapel of Cunningham and O'Connor's mortuary in downtown Los Angeles.

The Marines were present to honor Chaney, who was one of their greatest admirers and an honorary member since "Tell It to the Marines," a silent picture in which Chaney played a Marine sergeant and became personally acquainted with scores of the sea soldiers.

Marines Present

The rites were held up for more than a half hour when word was received that Gene Smedley Butler, one of Chaney's closest friends was expected to arrive by airplane from Philadelphia. General Butler failed to appear, however, at the time the chapel services were finished.

"It was a case of mutual admiration," explained Chaplain Dyer. "Lon Chaney liked the marines and there isn't a one of us who ever met him on shipboard or elsewhere who did not regard him as a real man—worthy of membership in the corps."

A crowd of approximately 500 men, women and children gathered in front of the chapel completely tying up traffic for several hours during the afternoon. Several police squads and a corps of motorcycles were called to marshal the throng.

Many Flowers

The inside of the chapel was a mass of floral pieces sent by motion picture celebrities and friends and admirers of Chaney in all parts of the world.

Mrs. Hazel Chaney, widow of the actor, was deeply affected by the rites and collapsed several times. A nurse was in attendance constantly and revived Mrs. Chaney, who was hysterical as the casket was taken from the chapel. She leaned heavily on the arm of her step-son, Craighton Chaney, and her nurse as she entered an automobile to go to the cemetery.

Four United States Marines with sabers bared stood guard as Chaplain Dyer spoke a few words in Chaneys' memory. Within a few feet of the Marine chaplain was Sergeant Frank McCloskey, a disabled war veteran, whom the actor had befriended and who had asked the privilege of standing at the head of the casket dressed in his World War uniform.

Simple Man

"If I had the ability to eulogize Lon Chaney in flowering language I would not do it," Chaplain Dyer said. "Lon Chaney was a simple man and would not like it.

"I could tell of his many virtues and of the friends he made and kept through early lean days in his chosen profession. I could tell of those whom he aided in his quiet manner, but I will not do this either."

At this point the chaplain placed his hand on the shoulder of Sergeant McCloskey.

Veteran Weeps

"Perhaps, if this man was able he could express better than I am able what I am trying to say about Lon Chaney," the chaplain said.

McCloskey bowed his head and wept. Later he explained to newspapermen that Chaney had found him when he was desperate from war injuries and nervous shock and had paid for hospital treatment which enabled him to make a living.

"Mr. Chaney was my constant friend," McCloskey said. "Last night I asked Mrs. Chaney for the great privilege which was mine today."

Stars Present

Hollywood's motion picture colony was represented at the services by Lew Cody and William Haines, close actor friends of Chaney, and by Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg and other executives at Metro-Goldwyn Mayer studios, where the actor was starred.

At the exact hour that the casket was lowered into a grave beside Frank Chaney, the actor's father, in Forest Lawn cemetery, a squad of Marines lowered a flag and sounded taps at the studio.

Five minutes of silence was observed on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer stages while actors and actresses, many of whom had worked with Chaney, stood with bowed heads. Other studios held three minutes silence and every Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer office in the world was inactive for the same length of time

FERRIES READY FOR LABOR DAY TRAFFIC

Transbay service over the Labor Day week-end which assures prompt and rapid transportation into and out of San Francisco was announced, today, by Southern Pacific Golden Gate ferries. Vice President and General Manager Edward H. Maggard of that company, said that the service provided for the coming week-end will be as good or better than given during earlier holiday periods.

Assuming that some people will start their vacations Friday afternoon, six boats will be run on ten minute headway between San Francisco and Oakland pier; this will be shortened to nine minutes at 4:00 p. m., at which time seven boats will be placed in service. Four vessels will run on a fifteen minute schedule between San Francisco and Berkeley; while there will be a twelve minute service on the Sausalito route.

For those who wish to leave town Saturday afternoon, there will be seven minute service with eight boats on the Oakland pier route; fifteen minute service to Berkeley after 11 a. m., and six minute service to Sausalito after 10:30 in the morning. The usual week-end schedule will be in force Sunday.

To take care of motorists returning home Monday via the Oakland pier route, seven boats will be placed in service after 4 p. m., and will operate on an eight minute headway. Fifteen minute service will be given on the Berkeley route after 3 p. m. and a six minute service will be established at the same time between Sausalito and San Francisco and will be shortened to four minutes after six o'clock.

To care for those who return from their week-end vacation at the last moment, special service has been provided for Tuesday morning. On the Sausalito route, a ten minute service will be given between 6 and 7 a. m., eight minutes service being provided thereafter. Starting at 6:30 a. m., boats on the Oakland pier route will operate under ten minute headway.

"The experience we have had in carrying peak load traffic on week-end holidays," said Vice-President and General Manager Maggard, "and the training our people have had in this service during the earlier week-end holidays, places us in a position to adequately care for the very large number of automobiles we believe will cross the bay Saturday and Labor day. With thirty-four vessels at our disposal, we are able through a system of dispatching to place them on the routes where they are most needed. In the handling of heavy auto traffic, we have been giving virtually continuous service between terminals and motorists are thus assured of getting out and into the city with a minimum of delay."

1st Television Set In West Is Built By Pupils

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28.—The first television receiving station to be built, so far as is known, at any place in the west, is just being completed at 807 Westborne drive, Los Angeles. The station is the property of a television club organized of members of a class in "Television, Telephotography and Picture Broadcasting," conducted by Dyonis M. Morandini and organized through the cooperation of the Extension Division of the University of California. The club is headed by Lee Jason.

There are no television broadcasting stations yet in operation, according to Morandini, but it is expected that one or two will be opened in the east late this year. Until such time as a broadcasting station is established, the club will use the receiving station for experimental work to increase the knowledge of the members of the class in this advanced stage of radio.

A new television class will be opened by Morandini in September, it is announced. The course includes a study of sending and receiving pictures and living objects through wire or radio, with the necessary elementary electrical explanations, and covers picture broadcasting, engineering principles and history of television.
